

Summary:

Blockchain is a decentralized digital ledger that records transactions across multiple computers . Blockchain has significant implications across various industries . Public blockchains like Ethereum and Bitcoin are open and accessible to anyone .